Eight senior IAD people attended the "Executives 50-Hour Digital Computer Course" given 24 - 28 January 1966 at the NPIC by the Department of Defense Computer Institute and NPIC personnel. The course provides a good familiarization with the "mysteries" of the computer field and an appreciation of the problems that exist for, and between, the practitioners and their customers. Several guest speakers from private industry highlighted the program.

██████████ recently returned from a tour of duty in SE Asia. He has approximately 600 color slides taken over widespread areas of Laos, Thailand, and South Vietnam. Many of these ground shots can be tied directly to aerial photo coverage -- some having been taken the same day as the aerial coverage. This material will be available soon in OCR/GR. Briefings are available for Headquarters analysts upon request to IAD.

USSR

BEER CAN radar-associated devices found at the Leningrad NW and SW Probable Long Range SAM Launch Complexes, and at the Kapustin Yar Electronics R&D Area are no longer unique in the Soviet Union. An IAD/MEB search of the area between Nizhniy Tagil and Nizhnyaya Salda resulted in the discovery of a BEER CAN radar raised circular platform and central cylinder under construction at 58-00N 060-38E, 3 nautical miles southeast of Verkhnyaya Salda. Construction activity on the new BEER CAN was negated on [REDACTED] and first seen [REDACTED] (TOP SECRET RUFF)

Possible FROG missile-associated equipment, including 1 missile resupply transporter trailer with prime mover, 1 truck-mounted crane, 2 probable GAZ 69-type trucks, 1 cargo truck, and an unidentified vehicle are located 2 nm east-southeast of the Bikin barracks area near a tracked-vehicle driver-training course. Nearby, 3 tank/assault guns were observed on each of the 3 tank/assault ranges and other tanks were observed in adjoining tracked-vehicle driver-training areas.

Sergeyevka Training Area SSW was only partially covered; however, 3 tank/assault guns were noted on both of the ranges that were observed. (TOP SECRET RUFF)

MOZAMBIQUE

Anticipating that the impending Rhodesian oil crisis will involve consideration of POL facilities at the port of Beira, Mozambique, IAD/IB has prepared briefing materials establishing the present layout of these facilities from the latest [REDACTED] and best aerial photography available. IAD will continue to watch for developments in this area. (TOP SECRET RUFF)
